

Trainee Wellbeing

Supported by
RACS Trainees' Association

Contact :
T: +61 3 9249 1212
E: racsta@surgeons.org

Our wellbeing is important, not only for ourselves but for our patients and the teams we work with.

RACS advances trainee wellbeing through education, support and advocacy on issues that impact on your training experience like unprofessional behaviours, diversity, flexible work, transferability of leave and safe hours.

Your Wellbeing

There are things you can do to maintain your wellbeing:

- practise self-care and know what works best for you to thrive
- have a GP
- have a network of people (colleagues, mentors, supervisors, family and friends) to lean on for support.

Support Services

Surgical training can be challenging and we are living in uncertain times. There are confidential options available if you need a safe place to talk:

RACS Support Program – delivered by Converge International, 24/7 support & four free sessions a year

Australasian Doctors Health Network – 24/7 support by doctors

Drs4Drs - 24/7 support by doctors

Hand-n-Hand – peer support by doctors

Doctors' Wellbeing Resources

There are a range of doctors' wellbeing resources available:

Apps: TEN for Healthcare Workers, Smiling Mind Healthcare Worker Program

Podcasts: AHPRA's Taking Care, RACS Post Op

Online: RACS Five to Thrive - self care micro activity

Drs4Drs Five Minute Guides to Staying Well

Pandemic Kindness Movement - curated wellbeing resources by clinicians

The Black Dog Institute Online Clinic

Keeping the Doctor Alive: a self care book for medical practitioners

Every Doctor: Healthier Doctors = Healthier Patients - ebook

Visit the Surgeons Wellbeing and Resources webpages for a full list of resources and support options.

