Title:	Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize

1. PURPOSE AND SCOPE

This document outlines the policy for the awarding of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize.

2. KEYWORDS

Education Prize, Research Prize, Surgical Prize, Surgical Award, Surgical Education Award, Academy of Surgical Education, academy, scholarship, prize.

3. BODY OF POLICY

3.1. Background

The Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize is awarded for the best research paper presented during the Surgical Education program at the Annual Scientific Congress (ASC).

The purpose of the prize is to encourage surgical education research in the Australian and New Zealand context by RACS Fellows and Trainees.

The Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize has been supported financially by Associate Professor Jenepher Martin FRACS since 1999.

The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee has oversight of the administration of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize.

3.2. Eligibility Criteria

The prize is open to all Fellows who present research papers in the Surgical Education stream at the ASC. This prize is also open to Trainees, Specialist International Medical Graduates, researchers, junior doctors and medical students. However, they would require a RACS Fellow as a co-investigator in their research. RACS staff that are not RACS Fellows are not eligible for this prize.

3.3. Selection Criteria

Authors must indicate if they want to have their presentations considered for the prize when they submit their abstract.

Presentations are scored using the following criteria:

- 3.3.1. Abstract quality (20%)
- 3.3.2. Research merit (40%)
- 3.3.3. Quality of presentation (40%)

The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee and the benefactor may, from time to time, review the eligibility criteria and selection process of the prize and make changes which will be included as an amendment to this policy.

3.4. Selection Process

The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee has oversight for the entry arrangements, eligibility of entrants, judging and awarding of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize.

The Surgical Education Convener of each Annual Scientific Congress will appoint a panel of three judges to select the winner of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize. The judging panel should have expertise in surgical education.

The judges will use the scoring criteria (outlined in the selection criteria) to assess all papers entered in the Prize to choose the winning presentation/s.

In the event of a tied decision, the panel may decide not to award the Prize or decide to divide the Prize money equally between the finalists. The panel may choose not to award the Prize, if, in their opinion, no presentation is of sufficient standard.

The winner/s will be announced after all eligible papers have been presented to the panel of judges and the judges have met to consider their decision.

The Prize will be acknowledged in Surgical News and the winner/s requested to write a brief article on the topic of the winning presentation/s to accompany the announcement.

3.5. Value of the Prize

The Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize will take the form of a monetary prize of $1,000, a certificate and a letter of congratulations from the Chair of Academy of Surgical Educators Committee. The certificate will be prepared by the Academy of Surgical Educators Secretariat in consultation with The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee.

The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee may review the value of the prize each year and, at its discretion, may elect to increase the value of the prize or offer a special prize in any given year, subject to the availability of adequate funds within the prize fund.

The value of the award/s in any given year must not diminish the corpus of the prize fund to less than the value of the donation provided to establish the prize.

3.6. Financial Arrangements

The Professional Development team, in conjunction with the RACS Finance team and the Academy of Surgical Educators Committee will administer the financial aspects of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize as a corpus.

The Finance team, as part of its joint financial administration of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize, will prepare a financial report disclosing the balance of funds held and associated revenue and expenditure items on a quarterly basis.

3.7. Frequency of the Prize

The Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize will be awarded annually. The Academy of Surgical Educators Committee reserves the right to withhold awarding of the prize if there is no suitable applicant in an individual year.

3.8. Presentation of the Prize

Information about the awarding of the Jenepher Martin Surgical Education Research Prize, including details of the winning presentation/s will be made available on the RACS website, in Surgical News and other avenues as appropriate.
